Chapter 1

One night, John was walking down the street when he noticed a group of people. One of them was standing in front of a truck. John also saw an open utility tunnel right next to them. The guy was about to get hit, so John saved him, but he rolled and fell into the utility tunnel and got electrocuted. The police found him unresponsive and took him to the hospital. When he woke up from his coma, he looked at his body. When he looked at his arm, he accidentally shot something out of his wrist. He was shocked and started asking the doctors what happened to him.

BUT... Let's get to the basics. His name is Jake Green, he's black and also 17 years old still in his senior year at Page High School at 12th grade finishing high school also. He had a pretty tough childhood, getting bullied and living with his mom, dad, and sister. His mom and dad struggled to pay the bills, and life had always been rough for him. But once he gained his powers in the hospital, everything would change not just his life, but his family's lives as well. He asks a doctor what's wrong with him, and the doctor responds, 'I'm not entirely certain.' But what really happened was that when he fell into the utility tunnel, he was discovered by a group of people who owned it. They were furious when they found him lying there unconscious, so they took him to some kind of secret dark room. They were testing their formulas on people, and "Maga ZA" was the formula they gave him. It was now inside his body, and it was the very thing that gave him his powers. And YES, that's a bad thing.

He thought, “My life is going to be so much better. I’m going to join a superhero company or organization of some kind so I can make money for my family.” But all his powers did was make his body uncomfortable and very… very unstable. Still, he did join something after finishing high school. It was a university called Super State University (SSU), where all kinds of superheroes studied, and learned how to be heroes. He asked one of the professors for a tour and some help getting around the place. The professor simply replied, “Yes.”He gave him a tour of the cafeteria, the classrooms, outside, office, etc. Jake was really excited. Their it was “The Gym” that was where all superheroes hanged out.
